Ta Din Daeng is a strong community based tourism group in Southern Thailand that has been actively working to promote sustainable tourism. Be welcomed into their daily life by learning about their organic farming methods, historic way of life and traditional occupations like making crab traps. Enjoy a relaxing kayak ride through the mangroves and a short hike to a local beach area where you can swim.

Morning

Arrive to Ta Ding Daeng Village at 9:30AM and meet your local guide. They will explain the history of the village and about their community based tourism group. Take a village tour with your guide and learn about the village organic garden.

Head out for a 30min-1hr kayak ride through the mangrove channels, you can row or have the local guide row while your site back and relax.

Enjoy a traditional style Southern lunch with the community.

Afternoon

Your local guide will explain about the old way of life and about the local occupations like making crab traps.

Then, take a short long tail boat ride to a local beach where you will take a short hike to a refreshing swimming area. Take time to relax, swim and lay on the beach.

Head back to the village and say goodbye to your new friends. Program ends at about 4:30PM.

We can arrange transfers before and after program completion
Please note that the kayaking activity will either be in the morning or afternoon
For Study and Service groups beach cleanup can be arranged

Andaman Discoveries is a social enterprise enabling visitors and volunteers to support community education, village-led conservation, and cultural empowerment.
